Nick Jonas Still Running For President!
Justin Bieber Nowhere To Be Found.

When average teens across the country are finishing finals in anticipation of starting summer break, celebrity teens are pretty enough to not have to worry about such nonsense and took time to flaunt their true contributions to the world at last night's 12th Annual Young Hollywood Awards, held at the Ebell Theatre in Los Angeles.

The awards show honored emerging talent of the teeny bopper genre and included appearances by The Jonas Brothers, the cast of Vampire Diaries, plenty of Twilight cuties, plus Dancing with the Stars finalist Chad Ochocinco and his trying-to-deny-their-love-but-nobody-believes-them dance partner, Cheryl Burke. Friends with benefits...let's just call it what it is.

But on to the real reason I show up to award shows: Fashion and insider gossip. It's like high school, but on a red carpet.

1. Ashley Greene picked up the award for Style Icon of the Year, and absolutely wowed in a draped v-neck dress and sexy black lingerie. Nikki Reed also picked up an award for SuperStar in the Making. I personally would have liked to present her Best Dressed for the evening as she justifies why she's definitely the hottest Cullen in a fabulously low-cut dress that compliments all the right places. Legs. For. Days.

2. Justin Bieber won Newcomer of the Year but was unfortunately a no-show because he was filming his "Somebody to Love" music video. Twilight: Eclipse newbie, Boo Boo Stewart (who plays Seth Clearwater), accepted on his behalf. BooBoo and cutie sister, Fivel Stewart were such dolls as he patiently spoke to each reporter while also revealing to me his celebrity crush was Adriana Lima and that he's scared of driving in LA! Sweet Boo Boo, that's what entourages are for.

3. Ex-Hills alum and recent Paris Hilton dumpee, Doug Reinhardt announced that he's doing his own reality TV show with his sister that will be "full of drama and lots of fun." Wow Doug, that tag-line sounds about as exciting as a tampon commercial.

4. My jailbait crush, Nick Jonas and his perfectly coiffed hair was awarded Artist of the Year, and just like SOCIALITELIFE.COM reported last month, he's still determined to run for President in the future! Check out the video of his plans for our country after the jump.
